

Drifffield Photographic Society

A New Year, a new photographic experience

Well Christmas should be over and a New Year started before you get to these evenings. So what have the committee got lined up for you in 2010?

We start back on January 11th with the second round of the Milne competition judged by Steve Race who gave us a great evening of wildlife photography back in October.

On 18th we then have an evening of photography by Mike Hopps. Mike is a freelance photographer for the Drifffield and Hull newspapers and is giving a presentation called "A year in Drifffield".

For those who want a night out on Thursday 21st there is a Yorkshire Coastal Photographic Group (YCPG) competition at Cottingham, entitled Innovative Image. This gives you a chance to see how the photographs DPS members shape up compared to members of other clubs in East Yorkshire. These are usually interesting evenings.

Finally on January 25th there is a Club Night. So far there is no theme set so see one of the committee if you would like any topic or topics covered. We will do our best to find someone to share their knowledge. February starts with the FRS competition on the 1st. This is for four images which relate to each other in some way or another. Our own Brian Jackson is judging so watch out for artefacts!!

On the 8th, Hot Coffee, a local professional photographer is presenting a Portrait Masterclass, so this is a must for all you budding David Baileys. Portraiture is a topic in which the club as a whole does not do well so it might kick start us.

On the 15th we host the Norman Trophy, an interclub competition of mixed projected images and prints. Again this is a YCPG competition. The 22nd the third and final round of Milne is judged by Matthew Brown and the winner announced.

Hope you all have a great Christmas and the New Year brings only good things in your life and photography.
